Payroll Tax: A Detailed Guide for Medical and Health Practices

Earlier this year, RevenueSA issued a ruling that delivered essential, albeit concerning, clarity on payroll tax obligations for a variety of medical and health practices. These encompass dental clinics, physiotherapy practices, radiology centres, and similar providers that engage medical and other health practitioners as independent contractors. Our commercial and tax director, Daniel Idema, will delve into the possible substantial payroll tax implications for such practices.

In this seminar, Daniel will cover the following topics:

- The RevenueSA ruling
- Determining what constitutes a relevant contract for payroll tax purposes
- Insights into the payroll tax amnesty program, including voluntary disclosure and other eligibility requirements
- Considerations for practices moving forward
- Understanding grouping and de-grouping issues

Don't miss this opportunity to equip yourself with the essential knowledge required to assess your exposure. Learn whether you meet the criteria for the payroll tax amnesty program, and discover if your existing arrangements need to be reviewed in light of these recent developments.

Designated medical practices interested in registering for the payroll tax amnesty program must do so by November 30, 2023.

We look forward to you joining us.
